National Pollution Control Day

The National Pollution Control Day is celebrated every year on 2nd of December in India in order to give honour and memorialize the thousands of human beings who had lost their existence because of the Bhopal gas calamity.

On the night of Dec 2nd, 1984, the accidental discharge of the toxic chemical gas Methyl Isocyanate and other toxic gases from the Union Carbide Chemical Plant in the city exposed over 500,000 people to these dangerous gases with zero protection. Of these over 2000 died immediately on exposure. 25,000 people in all died from exposure to these toxic chemicals, making the Bhopal Gas Tragedy the biggest industrial pollution disaster in history.”

The poster features a central illustration of a sad, anthropomorphic Earth wearing a white surgical mask. The Earth is surrounded by various symbols of pollution: a factory with smokestacks, a city skyline, a car, a tree, and a trash can. A banner across the Earth's face reads "SAVE THE EARTH". To the right of the illustration is the KIT logo, which includes the text "KIT Estd. 2004" and "ISO 9001:2015 CERTIFIED", along with a NAAC A grade accreditation seal.
